MENOCLONE

THE PANAMERA MANIFESTO

2011 PORSCHE PANAMERA / CREATIVE CONCEPT 001 / ODOTNYC

A NOTE FROM ODOT

Everybody knows the 911. That's a classic. But the Panamera spoke to me differently: four doors, a long roofline, and a silhouette with its own rhythm. I wanted to understand that design before putting my signature on it.

This concept is about perseverance. The setbacks, the lessons, and the ambition to build meaningful MENOCLONE products all belong in the same story. The car is a symbol of the road forward.

PORSCHE HERITAGE & THE PANAMERA

Porsche's engineering office began in Stuttgart in 1931. The 356 arrived in 1948; the car that became the 911 debuted in 1963. The Panamera made its debut in 2009 as a four-door Gran Turismo.

The Stuttgart horse on the Porsche crest reflects the city's coat of arms. The antlers reference Württemberg; the black, red, and gold elements evoke the region's heraldic traditions.

THE DESIGN LANGUAGE

Gloss-black bodywork, a warm-cream MENOCLONE windshield wordmark, restrained cream accents, and MENOCLONE-branded tire-sidewall graphics. The tire-sticker concept is presented by MENOCLONE Motorsports, a sector of MENOCLONE.

LEARNING THE MACHINE

OdotNYC's learning journey includes studying Porsche mechanical systems and speaking with experienced local automotive professionals. Future journal updates will document the research and build progress; no dealership partnership or Porsche certification is implied.

INVESTOR / COLLABORATION CONVERSATIONS

Explore the full landing page and weekly journal, then share the project with prospective collaborators or investors. Connect via Instagram: instagram.com/menoclone.

Independent creative concept. Not affiliated with or endorsed by Porsche AG. Vehicle and tire graphics are conceptual and subject to safety and installation review. ORIGINALITY HAS ORIGINS.